Welcome to the 45th Annual Meeting of the Oral History Association. This year brings OHA to Colorado—first time since 1980—with Denver (and the Renaissance Hotel) as our host. Denver gives us awesome opportunities to engage with our colleagues on an intellectual level and to explore the thriving city surrounded by beautifully rugged landscapes.

This year’s theme, “Memories of Conflict and Disaster: Oral History and the Politics of Truth, Trauma, and Reconciliation,” comes just after the 10th anniversary of September 11, 2001. The events that occurred in Japan, the Middle East, and the U.S. Southeast over the last year have added more contextual credence to the theme.

With contributors from all over the country and world, we have built a program that fits our topic while offering space for the presentation of myriad subjects within oral history. For example, panelists will address their work documenting events such as the Dust Bowl, the Holocaust, and the conflict in Vietnam, to mention a few of the over 70 slated sessions.

Our two plenaries will offer attendees two distinct and relevant subjects. The first, scheduled for Thursday, will highlight groups from Columbia University as they discuss 9/11 and how we can teach and learn from that catastrophe. Friday’s presentation will focus on environmental history, with the presenters exploring how public lands history, federal agencies, and environmental inquiry can enrich oral history.

In addition, two keynoters are sure to provide much thought to accompany the food. Friday’s lunch speaker, Dr. Doug Boyd, will discuss Oral History in the Digital Age and the ways that this grant specifically addresses how new technologies affect the process of recording, preserving and providing access to materials. Saturday night’s awards dinner presenter, Dr. Carolyn Mears, will discuss her upcoming work, Reclaiming School in the Aftermath of Trauma, which offers educators advice based on her research with teachers, administrators, and staff. Mears, as a Columbine mother, offers a perspective that joins this year’s theme and location.

Along with Saturday night, we offer evening activities on Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday, the Film Spotlight will showcase several documentaries from Colorado and beyond. Thursday brings the annual Presidential Reception, which will take place at the Blair-Caldwell African American Research Library, a public institution that serves to display the story of African Americans throughout the Rocky Mountain West. Along with ample opportunity for food, drink, and mingling in this interesting locale, a long-time contributor to the OHA will be honored. This year at the reception, we give tribute to Dr. Timuel Black—educator, activist, and oral historian.

The 2011 conference will also host a book spotlight on Thursday afternoon, entitled New Tools for Teaching and Learning about African American Life and Communities in the 20th Century.” Along with this offering, we have planned two other unique sessions: “So, What Do You Do?” on Thursday and “Speed Transformation, Spotlight on Oral History in the 21st Century Classroom: A Special Issue of The Oral History Review” on Friday.

As usual, workshops will furnish attendees with professional development options for every level of oral historian. Participants can be introduced to the field, learn about new technologies in publishing, or get the inside scoop on how to apply the law to oral history collection. Those choices only touch on 3 of the 8 workshops scheduled for Wednesday and Saturday.

Besides all those programmatic offerings, the local arrangement committee, headed by Jen Myronuk and Cyns Nelson, has brought together a variety of interesting activities. There will be a Community Showcase, where several Denver and regional-based project and programs will display and discuss their oral-history endeavors. Also, continuing the OHA tradition, there are wonderful dine-arounds and a special Friday night live performance: A People’s History of Colorado.

We want to thank the folks from around the country who agreed to join us on the program committee. Every committee member’s work enhanced this year’s efforts. We also applaud Madelyn Campbell for helping us from the initial CFP to these days in Denver. We appreciated her advice, support, and wealth of annual meeting knowledge. If we may paraphrase Hillary Clinton (and the African proverb she borrowed from), it did indeed take a village to raise this annual meeting!

“Oral History in the Digital Age”

BALLROOM B

Doug Boyd is a recognized national leader in oral history, archives and digital technologies. He is currently managing the IMLS grant project, Oral History in the Digital Age, establishing current best practices for collecting, curating and disseminating oral histories. MATRIX, at Michigan State University, directs the grant which partners the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian, the Oral History Association, and the American Folklore Society. Oral History in the Digital Age has brought experts together from a variety of backgrounds and disciplines to discuss cutting edge issues pertaining to oral history and the impact of new technologies on the process of recording, preserving and providing access to oral history. Boyd will reflect on the process, and discuss insights and outcomes of the Oral History in the Digital Age initiative.

Doug Boyd PhD serves as the Director of the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History at the University of Kentucky Libraries. Most recently, Boyd led the team that designed and implemented the open source OHMS system that synchronizes text with audio and video online, and he is currently completing implementation of an open source, online oral history collection management database system. He is the author of the book Crawfish Bottom: Recovering a Lost Kentucky Community published in August 2011 by the University Press of Kentucky as well as “Achieving the Promise of Oral History in a Digital Age,” a chapter in The Oxford Handbook to Oral History (Oxford University Press) by Donald A. Ritchie. Boyd also regularly writes, lectures and consults on oral history and digital technologies, archives, and digital preservation. Previously, Boyd established and administered Digital Programs for the University of Alabama Libraries, served as the Director of the Kentucky Oral History Commission and prior to that worked as the Senior Archivist for the oral history collection at the Kentucky Historical Society. He was elected to the Executive Council of the Oral History Association in 2010. Doug Boyd received his PhD and MA degrees in Folklore from Indiana University and his BA degree in History from Denison University in Granville, Ohio.

For those not attending the luncheon, the program will begin at 12:45PM.
Carolyn L. Mears, University of Denver
“Stronger at the Broken Places: Learning from the Columbine Tragedy”

TELLURIDE

For her insider research, Carolyn Mears developed a distinctive methodological approach into lived experience and perceived meaning. Her dissertation was recognized as the Outstanding Qualitative Dissertation of the Year award by the American Educational Research Association (AERA).

In response to requests for information on how to conduct such a study, Mears wrote Interviewing for Education and Social Science Research: The Gateway Approach (Palgrave Macmillan, 2009). The text was a finalist as AERA Book of the Year 2010.

Her upcoming work, Reclaiming School in the Aftermath of Trauma, offers educators advice based on firsthand experience from teachers, administrators, and faculty at schools that have been shattered by rampage shootings, natural disaster, or acts of terrorism. It will be published by Palgrave Macmillan in 2012.

Mears has presented to a variety of audiences in the U.S., Europe, and Australia on such topics as trauma response and recovery, safe school environments, leadership in times of crisis, and gateway research.

Carolyn L. Mears, PhD, holds a research appointment and is adjunct faculty at the University of Denver. As an educator and parent whose son was a student at Columbine High School at the time of the shootings, she knew that much could be learned from the tragedy. As a result, she enrolled in a doctoral program to conduct dissertation research into the impact of the tragedy on schools and families.
Teaching and Learning from Catastrophe: September 11, 2001, a Case Study

BALLROOM A

Chair: Don Ritchie, U.S. Senate Historical Office
Commentator: Michael Frisch, University at Buffalo, SUNY
Speakers: Mary Marshall Clark, Frank Moretti, Mark Phillipson

One of the deadening effects of catastrophe is that it is difficult to express, in ordinary language, the loss of meaning that occurs as the result of traumatic injury and must be rebuilt over time. This presents a challenge of how to teach traumatic events, particularly political ones, to future generations. While it is clear that oral history is able to make a unique contribution to documenting catastrophe, through preserving the agency of the narrator in the act of telling and framing meaning, the question remains. How do we teach an event like September 11, 2001 without risking transferring trauma to those who hear the stories for the first time, and extending the injury of catastrophe?

This plenary brings together two partners at Columbia University working along parallel tracks to provide students, faculty and the public at large with the creative digital tools to use their own agency in exploring the multiple impacts of injury, and the slow process of recovery. Mary Marshall Clark, the director of the Columbia Center for Oral History, and co-director (with Peter Bearman) of the September 11, 2001 Oral History Narrative and Memory Project, will be joined by her colleagues Frank Moretti, director of the Columbia Center for New Media Teaching and Learning and Mark Phillipson, senior outreach specialist at CCNMTL, to reflect on the challenges of creating innovative learning environments to teach the history and experience of injury and recovery. Each center has been deeply involved with understanding the multiple impacts of September 11, 2001 in New York City. The Columbia Center for Oral History conducted life histories with over 600 people from October 2001 to June 2005, totaling 900 hours, in a diverse set of communities throughout New York City resulting in a collective memory of catastrophe. Through a partnership with Project Rebirth, a film by Jim Whitaker that integrates time-lapse photography with longitudinal interviews taken with nine family members of those who died, CCNMTL has provided educational strategies for understanding how recovery takes place over time. The creative challenges of teaching September 11, 2001 through these contrasting approaches will lead to an open forum for discussing the uses of oral history and multimedia digital environments to transmit memory from one generation to another.
Mary Marshall Clark
Director, Columbia Center for Oral History

In addition to being the Director of CCOH, Mary Marshall Clark is co-director of Columbia’s Oral History Master of Arts (OHMA) degree program with Peter Bearman, founded in 2008-09. Formerly, she was an oral historian and filmmaker at the New York Times. Mary Marshall has been involved in the international oral history movement since 1991, and was president of the Oral History Association in 2001-2002. She is the founder, with Peter Bearman, of the September 11, 2001 Oral History Narrative and Memory Project, and directed related projects on the aftermath of September 11th in New York City. Mary Marshall, Peter Bearman, Stephen Smith and Catherine Ellis are co-editors on a book drawn from the collection, titled After the Fall: New Yorkers Remember September, 2001 and the Years that Followed, published by The New Press. Mary Marshall writes on issues of memory, the mass media, trauma, and ethics in oral history. Her current work focuses on the global impact of torture and detention policies at Guantánamo Bay. She is a distinguished lecturer for the Organization of American Historians.

Frank A. Moretti
Executive Director,
Columbia Center for New Media Teaching and Learning

Frank Moretti is co-founder of the Columbia Center for New Media Teaching and Learning, for which he provides pedagogical, strategic and managerial leadership. In addition to defining the goals and disseminating the CCNMTL message on campus, Frank serves as Professor of Communications, Computing and Technology at Teachers College. Prior to joining Teachers College, Frank served as the Associate Headmaster at the Dalton School, where he was also Executive Director of their New Laboratory for Teaching and Learning, which he co-founded in 1989, and of the internationally known Dalton Technology Plan. His many degrees include a PhD in History and an M. Phil from Columbia University, an M.Ed. from Teachers College and a BA in Greek and Latin from St. Bonaventure University. Frank is recognized as one of America’s leading theorists and practitioners in the use of digital technology in education.

Mark Phillipson
Senior Program Specialist,
Columbia Center for New Media Teaching and Learning

Mark leads the Digital Bridges strategic initiative at CCNMTL. He works with faculty at Columbia, Columbia University Libraries, museums, media archives, film productions, and scientific data repositories to build innovative educational activities around curated digital resources. Mark’s projects at CCNMTL include Mapping the African American Past (winner of the Award for Innovative Use of Archives from the Archivists Round Table of Metropolitan New York), Project Vietnam (an IMLS-funded partnership with WGBH), and MediaThread (an open source image and video analysis platform).

Mark also teaches in the Core Curriculum and Columbia’s English Department, where he has developed several seminars in British romanticism. Before joining CCNMTL in 2006, he was an assistant professor of English at Bowdoin College; his early models of class wikis there attracted coverage from EDUCAUSE and the Chronicle of Higher Education. Mark holds a PhD from the University of California, Berkeley and a BA in English from Columbia College. He also earned a degree in library science at Simmons College in 2006, and was designated an Association of Research Libraries Academy Fellow.
Personal Stories and Public Lands: Exploring Common Ground in Oral and Environmental History

BALLROOM A

This session draws inspiration from Denver’s majestic Colorado Rockies setting and the long prominence of environmental issues in the American West. The plenary roundtable will explore the fruitful intersections between oral history and environmental history, with an emphasis on federal lands. For over a century, U.S. citizens have crafted a system of public lands that is both a source of pride for the nation and a wellspring for seemingly endless conflict. Though national park and national forest lands are as diverse as Americans themselves, oral histories with those who live near, work with, and regularly visit them reveal a striking pattern of deep relationship. These passionately felt relationships with common lands are central to many Americans’ understanding of “place” and their own identity, but have gone largely unexplored by scholars, land administrators, and public historians alike.

Drawing on the work of historians within and outside federal agencies, the plenary roundtable will demonstrate how oral history can shed light on public lands history, and how environmental inquiry can enrich oral history. Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness scholar Debbie Lee, Pisgah and Nantahala National Forest researcher Kathryn Newfont, and Joshua Tree National Park historian Hannah Nyala West will offer insights from their oral history work on particular federal tracts. National Park Service historian Lu Ann Jones will discuss her recent work spearheading that agency’s oral history program. Environmental historian Paul Sutter, of the University of Colorado-Boulder, will chair the roundtable and put the work in broad context. Together these presentations will offer insights into environmental history, oral history, and the meanings of Americans’ public lands inheritance.

Kathryn Newfont studies the rich temperate forests of the southern Appalachians and the people they have sustained, with a particular emphasis on national forest history. She began interviewing forest activists while a graduate student with the Southern Oral History Program at UNC-Chapel Hill. Now an Associate Professor of History at Mars Hill College in mountainous western North Carolina, she also serves as Faculty Chair of the college’s Liston B. Ramsey Center for Regional Studies. She recently completed her first book manuscript, with support from a National Endowment for the Humanities fellowship. The book, Blue Ridge Commons: Environmental Activism and Forest History in Western North Carolina, is forthcoming in February 2012 from University of Georgia Press. She is currently collaborating with Debbie Lee on a co-edited volume exploring oral history and public lands.
Debbie Lee is a professor of English at Washington State University. She is the author of, most recently, Romantic Liars (Palgrave 2006), a book that traces the lives of six women impostors who lived in 19th-century England. She is currently working on an oral history book chronicling the human history of the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness of Idaho and Montana. Her book and oral history project are funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. In addition, she and Kathy Newfont are co-editing a collection of essays on oral history and public land.

Hannah Nyala West is a writer, anthropologist, and historian who is completing a PhD at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Her published works include the memoir Point Last Seen and the novel Leave No Trace. She is currently coordinating an oral history project and two Traditional Cultural Property studies at Joshua Tree National Park.

Lu Ann Jones is a staff historian with the National Park Service’s Park History Program in Washington, DC. Much of her work focuses on oral history training for NPS personnel. Before joining the Park Service, Lu Ann taught at the University of South Florida in Tampa and East Carolina University in Greenville, NC. Between 1986 and 1991 she directed An Oral History of Southern Agriculture at the Smithsonian’s National Museum of American History. Her publications include Mama Learned Us to Work: Farm Women in the New South (Chapel Hill, 2002) and the co-authored Like a Family: The Making of a Southern Cotton Mill World (Chapel Hill, 1987, 2000). Lu Ann has served the Oral History Association as a member of council and is currently a member of the nominating committee.

Paul Sutter is an Associate Professor of History at the University of Colorado, Boulder. He received his PhD from the University of Kansas in 1997, where he studied with Donald Worster. He then served as a Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Virginia from 1997-2000, and he was a member of the History Department at the University of Georgia from 2000-2009. Paul is the author of Driven Wild: How the Fight Against Automobiles Launched the Modern Wilderness Movement (University of Washington Press, 2002), co-author of The Art of Managing Longleaf: A Personal History of the Stoddard-Neel Approach (University of Georgia Press, 2010), and co-editor of Environmental History and the American South: A Reader (University of Georgia Press, 2009). Paul has also published numerous articles and book chapters on the American wilderness movement, southern environmental history, U.S. imperial environmental history, and other topics, and he is the academic editor of the “Environmental History and the American South” book series published by the University of Georgia Press. Paul has held fellowships from the Smithsonian Institution, the Huntington Library, and the National Endowment for the Humanities. He is currently working on two book projects. The first, tentatively titled “Pulling the Teeth of the Tropics: Environment, Disease, Race, and the U.S. Sanitary Program in Panama, 1904–1914,” interprets American expansion and imperial public health through the lens of environmental history. The second, tentatively titled “Let Us Now Praise Famous Gullies: Georgia’s ‘Little Grand Canyon’ and the Soils of the South,” examines the history of soil erosion and conservation in the U.S. South through the unlikely history of Providence Canyon State Park, which preserves a network of spectacular erosion gullies.
Wednesday Night Short Film Screening & Bourbon Tasting

ASPEN

Join us for a lively evening of short films, digital stories, poetry and previews with a special bourbon tasting sponsored by the Buffalo Trace Distillery. Co-presented by Colorado Voice Preserve and Her Story Media.

Featured short film: Quest for the Perfect Bourbon: Voices of Buffalo Trace Distillery (30 mins)

Producer and Director: Joanna Hay

2011 OHA Nonprint Media Award, Honorable Mention

As a project of the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History at the University of Kentucky Libraries, Quest for the Perfect Bourbon: Voices of Buffalo Trace Distillery provides an insider’s look at life in the distillery and how world-class bourbon is made. In addition to producing award-winning bourbon in Frankfort, Kentucky, one of the oldest distilling sites in the country, the distillery also has a remarkably rich history. Quest For the Perfect Bourbon features the people and stories of the Buffalo Trace family, such as Master Distiller Emeritus Elmer T. Lee and descendents of iconic figures like Col. Albert Blanton, Col. E.H. Taylor, and Pappy Van Winkle.

Short film: Mosaic: Voices of Women’s Suffrage (30 mins)

Producer and Director: Jen Myronuk

Mosaic: Voices of Women’s Suffrage is a filmed version of the play written and performed by local Colorado students Jessica Miller, Liesl Jensen & Nicole Polglaze.

Mosaic features historic portrayals of suffragists Julia Ward Howe, Caroline Churchill and Alice Paul. Shot on location at the Hotel Boulderado in Boulder, Colorado, the play showcases accomplishments of three American suffragists and imagines a conversation comparing their experiences from the 1860’s til 1920, when the 19th Amendment passed granting women the right to vote.

Short Film: Packed: A Film About Fire, People, and Possessions (15 mins)

Producers: Mary Ann Williamson and Angie Burnham

On Sept. 6, 2010 in the mountains west of Boulder, Colorado, a wildfire swept through a 6,000 acre area, burning 169 structures. Most of these structures were homes, and over 3,500 people were evacuated during the eleven-day blaze. Some had a day to organize and pack their cars, while others left with only the clothes they were wearing when the fire roared too close. Packed is a film about the evacuees and what they chose to take with them, not knowing if the possessions left behind would survive the massive blaze.
Previews & Trailers:

_Protest and Poetry: Anne Waldman and Allen Ginsberg_

Sponsored by the Maria Rogers Oral History Program of the Boulder Public Library’s Carnegie Library for Local History, Boulder, Colorado, Protest & Poetry features a recording of poet Anne Waldman reading her own protest poetry and a poem by Allen Ginsberg at a 2006 reunion of activists who protested against the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant in the 1980s. Poems include “Plutonium Ode,” “Mega Death Chant,” and “I Remember Being Arrested.”

_Cowboy Poetry: A Woman Ranching in the Rockies_

Producer: Kent Gunnufson

Cowboy Poetry is a warm and insightful portrait of Peggy Godfrey by award-winning filmmaker Kent Gunnufson. The biographical film, _The Miracle of Peggy Godfrey_, tells the story of her hard-fought ranching career, through striking images and her own voice, in stories and poetry. Excerpts from the film and three poems will be screened.

_Center for Digital Storytelling: A Collection of Short Digital Stories_

Producer: Daniel Weinshenker

Digital storytelling has been an effective tool for conducting both oral and visual histories in a format in which the author retains control as editor of his/her own story. As such, it is an important step in both the oral history and social justice movements because it ensures that stories are not removed from the communities and individuals that live them, to be edited by “historians.” In short, through the digital storytelling process, each individual that lives a story becomes the historian and editor of that story.

_The Murmur of Time_

Julio Girona, a Cuban artist living in New Jersey, enlisted in the U.S. Army to fight the fascists in World War II. After 50 years, an old army buddy discovers him on the internet and goes to Havana to see him. Girona recounts war experiences and his life as an artist in Cuba.

Victor Casaus, poet and documentary filmmaker from Havana, Cuba, will comment on his film and read some selected poems. Full screening is scheduled for Friday, October 14, 9:30PM, Ballroom A.

_Gay Revolt At Denver City Council, Oct. 23, 1973, And How It Changed Our World_

Producer: Gerald Gerash

Told by Gerald Gerash, one of the co-founders of a gay liberation group in Denver, _Gay Revolt_ chronicles the origins of the community from 1972 and how the group organized the community around issues of gay rights and gay liberation. This documentary chronicles the achievements of their astonishing successes in the following years. Full screening is scheduled for Thursday, October 13, 3:15PM, Steamboat.
THURSDAY PRESIDENTIAL RECEPTION

October 13, 2011, 6:00–8:30PM
BLAIR-CALDWELL AFRICAN AMERICAN RESEARCH LIBRARY

2401 Welton Street, Denver, CO 80205 • 720–865–2401
Buses depart from the hotel beginning at 5:15PM; the last bus will return to the hotel at 9:00PM.

This year at the Presidential Reception we will pay tribute to Historymaker Timuel D. Black, known to us all as “Tim.”

As a life-long educator, community activist, experienced and seasoned oral historian as well as published scholar, Mr. Black personifies the essence of OHA. Tim’s actions as a community activist are legendary in promoting racial and social justice, demanding quality educational stewardship within the high schools and the City Colleges of Chicago as well as working with the late Mayor Harold Washington, and President Barack Obama. His long association and friendship with Studs Terkel is an example of Mr. Black’s ability to promote interracial cooperation and sanction justice for working families.

Tim has done more than simply work in the fields of activism; he has interviewed, recorded, written and published a people’s history of Black Chicago, Bridges of Memory: Chicago’s First Wave of Black Migration and a second book is entitled: Bridges of Memory Volume 2: Chicago’s Second Generation of the Black Migration.” As he approaches his mid-90s, he does not want to slow down.

Blair-Caldwell is located in Denver’s “Five Points” neighborhood, part of the Welton Street Historic District. Five Points is one of the city’s oldest neighborhoods and one of the few predominantly African American-owned commercial strips in the country. Named for its unusual intersection (where the Downtown diagonal grid meets East Denver’s rectangular grid), Five Points also has been a junction where music greats such as Billie Holliday and Miles Davis would find tight space in Jazz-loving venues.

FRIDAY NIGHT: LIVE MUSIC AND THEATER PERFORMANCE

7:30PM Pre-Show Reception and Performance
8:00PM Featured play: “A People’s History of Colorado” presented by the Romero Theater Troupe
BALLROOM A

Join us for an evening of music and organic theater as the voices of Colorado’s untold history are brought to life by the Romero Theater Troupe. Inspired by the late Howard Zinn, “A People’s History of Colorado” is a multi-media performance designed to teach history through the lens of those who did not enjoy political, economic, cultural, or social privilege and have been largely written out of the history books and social studies taught in schools today. Challenging the conventional teachings of Colorado’s history, “A People’s History of Colorado” tells stories from the perspective of Lupe Briseno, Mother Jones, the lost voices of the Sand Creek Massacre and the 17,000 peaceful protesters of Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant as a way to explore the mentality of imperialism that dominates our current conflicts.

From the dominance of the KKK to Japanese Internment Camps of World War II, “A People’s History of Colorado” highlights the actions of courageous people with the hope of transforming the teaching and telling of history for students and the community-at-large.

Invoking the spirit of Oscar Romero, the Romero Theater Troupe is a community-based, all volunteer performance group—all of the art is constructed together, the intersection of many visions and experiences. The mission is to grow together in community with others, to engage the general public in the practice of exploring history, and to promote social justice through the art of organic theater.
So, What Do You Do? Parts I & II
Thursday Morning

SESSION 10 AND 17
BALLROOM A

Building on the successful double panel in Atlanta last year, “So, What Do You Do?” returns to OHA Denver in 2011. SWDYD consists of two consecutive sessions, with rapid fire presentations in Part I followed by a series of round-table discussions in Part II. Modeled after formats growing popular in tech and arts conferences like “Dork Shorts” at George Mason University’s “THATCamp” or Pecha Kucha nights, hosted in cities worldwide, the format allows attendees and participants to see what others are doing “at a glance” and connect like-minded people in an informative, fun, social mode of exchange.

Presentations in the first session will focus primarily on innovative applications of technology to oral history and be strictly limited to 6 minutes each. In lieu of traditional question-and-answer following the presentations, presenters and audience members will convene in multiple group discussions during the second session, organized by the core questions raised by these short talks. Reorganizing in 2 or 3 additional rounds of discussion, group interests will steer the direction, depth, and topics of the conversation. Themes will represent current trends in oral history, like the following core issues discussed in Atlanta in 2010:

• Publication of Oral History
• Preservation and Access
• Content development and management
• Project Management and volunteer coordination

For more specifics on SWDYD 2011, email Doug Lambert, organizer, at doug@randforce.com

Speed Transformation
Friday Morning

SESSION 41
BALLROOM A

Spotlight on “Oral History in the 21st Century Classroom”: A Special Issue of The Oral History Review.

As the recent issue of The Oral History Review demonstrates, grade to graduate school classrooms and programs are being transformed through oral history projects. Maximize information and idea gathering when you attend three mini-sessions in one. Welcome to “Speed Transformation.”

The OHA Speed Transformation format allows you to choose three oral history projects that meet your needs and interests. Eight presenters will sit at their own tables, leaving room for attendees to sit down and learn from their experience of using oral history as an educational methodology. Designed for innovative teachers, these intimate, 15-minute information-packed “dates” will dispense with the small talk and instead focus on the important themes, details, and challenges and solutions, associated with bringing oral history projects to students. After 15 minutes of inspiring idea exchange, you will move on to a second and third speaker who will share insights on your next favorite projects. The remainder of the session will include additional idea exchanges among all session attendees.

In one session, you’ll get to sit down with a total of three innovative educators who can address your most pressing needs and desires to transform the learning landscape for students. The cutting-edge ideas you’ll take back to your teaching and learning environment will prove invaluable and show where oral history has been and where oral history is going as a 21st-century educational methodology.
EXHIBITS

“The Ditch Project” – 150 Years of Ditches: Boulder’s Constructed Landscape

Water development constructed the Boulder-Valley landscape, just as dams and ditches have etched complex patterns across the American West. “The Ditch Project” (2009) was a multi-venue exhibition of artwork, photo essays, and historical/educational material about ditches. The Project inspired tours, a symposium, videos, a film series, and storytelling; it also sparked curiosity about the human and natural consequences of systematic irrigation. During the OHA conference, a portion of the exhibition—including “Ditch Riders” portraits by photographer Stephen Collector—will be on display. Elizabeth Black curated the Project and has pulled its electronic contents into a Web site: http://bcn.boulder.co.us/basin/ditchproject/.

COMMUNITY SHOWCASE

Friday morning will be an opportunity to learn about programs and projects coming from the Intermountain region. A “Community Showcase” will be held in the area outside Ballroom A, where Friday’s plenary takes place. Stop by for coffee, conversation, and to check out the work conceived by local folks. Colorado is not part of any regional oral-history organization, so this conference gives locals the rare chance to put their projects on display.

BOOK EXHIBITS, VENDORS AND AUTHORS’ TABLE

Thursday, October 13, Friday, October 14 9:00AM–5:00PM
Saturday, October 15, 9:00AM–12:00PM TELLURÍDE

From Thursday morning at 9:00AM through Saturday at 12:00PM, exhibit tables will provide information and examples from equipment vendors, transcribers, publishers, oral history programs, and state and regional organizations.

Authors will be available at various times throughout the meeting to talk with participants.

A special book signing will be held on Friday, 3:15PM.

NEWCOMERS BREAKFAST

Friday, October 14, 7:30–8:30AM  BALLROOM B

Those attending their first OHA meeting are invited to join association officers, committee chairs, and editors for a complimentary continental breakfast. This will be an opportunity to meet some seasoned colleagues as well as people who are relatively new to the field. If you plan to attend, please indicate this on your registration form. We look forward to meeting you.

COFFEE BREAKS/BOOKSIGNING

Friday, October 14, 3:15–3:45PM TELLURIDE

A chance to refresh and re-energize! On Friday, conference participants are invited to come together for conversation, refreshments and a chance to meet some of the authors whose work is being spotlighted in the plenaries, special programs, and keynote addresses. On Friday morning, stop in at the Community Showcase outside Ballroom A and talk with community members about their current projects.

DINE AROUND DINNER GROUPS

Friday, October 14, 6:00PM  HOTEL LOBBY

Experience Denver’s diverse dining scene. Join us on Friday, October 14 to meet with members of the local history community and sample some of Denver’s eclectic culinary options. Sign up at the Dine Around display at the registration desk for the option that appeals to you most.

Transportation information will be provided at the display.
COMMITTEE ON DIVERSITY RECESSION

Saturday, October 15, 5:30–6:30PM
ASPEN

OHA’s Committee on Diversity invites all those attending the conference to join together for conversation and networking at a cash bar reception.

AWARDS PRESENTATION

Saturday, October 15 7:30–9:00PM
TELLURIDE

For those not attending the dinner at 6:30PM, we invite you to attend the full Saturday evening program beginning at 7:30PM.

The following awards for outstanding use of oral history will be presented:

- Book Award
- Martha Ross Teaching Award
- Nonprint Format Award
- Emerging Crises Research Grant

The Vox Populi Award honors outstanding achievement in the collecting and use of oral histories of individuals and organizations whose work has contributed to change for a better world.

The award is named in honor of Stetson Kennedy, a pioneer oral historian whose work has been an important tool for advocacy on behalf of human rights. His work has also had a significant, continuing impact on the oral history movement itself.

Before the Vox Populi Award is presented, a brief tribute will be offered in memory of Kennedy, who passed away in August 2011.

TOURS

Saturday, October 15, 12:15–4:30PM
Buddhists and Beat Poets: Multi-Media Presentation of Boulder’s Counter Culture & Community in the 1970s and 1980s and Afternoon Tea at Dushanbe Tea House

Travel to the nearby community of Boulder, Colorado, for an engaging, multi-media presentation at Boulder’s Public Library including video and audio recordings of Marcia Usow, Barbara Dilley, and Lee Worley as they share memories of the early 1970s when the Boulder Buddhist community grew around the teachings and leadership of Chogyam Trungpa Rinpoche.

Explore how Boulder and Naropa University came to be a center of Buddhist engagement, drawing influential figures such as nun Pema Chodron and Sakyong Mipham Rinpoche. Recorded interviews with poet Jack Colm explore his long and colorful literary career including becoming a poet, teaching poetry in the schools and at Naropa University, and the folk-music community of the 1970s, including a reading of three of his poems and a yodeling performance. Poet Anne Waldman reads works by her and by Allen Ginsberg—including “Mega Death Chant” and “I Remember Being Arrested”—about the Rocky Flats nuclear weapons plant in the 1980s and the issue of nuclear weapons. Sponsored in part by the Maria Rogers Oral History Program of Boulder’s Carnegie Branch Library for Local History.

After the presentation, an afternoon tea and discussion will be hosted at the Boulder Dushanbe Tea House, a gift from Boulder’s sister city in Tajikistan. With its hand-carved and hand-painted ceiling, tables, stools, columns, and exterior ceramic panels, the Dushanbe Tea House is one of the area’s local gems, serving teas and global culinary delights.

Meet in the lobby at 12:15PM. Bus to Boulder departs at 12:30PM and returns to the conference hotel at 4:30PM.

Cost: $40

MEALS

Several meals are included as part of the conference, followed by speakers and award presentations as noted in the program. A meal package is available or meal tickets can be purchased individually. The program following each meal is open to all conference participants. The meal package ($120) includes a luncheon on Friday, dinner on Saturday evening, and a Sunday Buffet breakfast. Both the package and individual tickets for meals are available through preregistration. Only limited tickets are available during on-site registration. OHA encourages you to participate in these community meals. They provide a wonderful opportunity to meet new colleagues and reminisce with old friends. Participation also helps OHA meet its contractual obligations to the hotel.

LODGING

The Renaissance Denver Hotel will be the site for all conference activities. Our special conference rate of $130/night will be available only until September 13. Be sure to ask for the Oral History Association rate when making reservations. We encourage you to stay at the Renaissance and enjoy the convenience of being close to all the activities. Complimentary meeting space depends on booking a minimum number of rooms. Please call 303-399-7500.

TRAVEL TIPS & TRANSPORTATION

Getting Around Denver: You’ll find that Denverites give directions based on the compass (north, south, east, west), because if you can see the mountains, you will always know which way is west.

Bike lanes, RTD bus service, and a downtown light rail all link to Union Station in historic Lower Downtown Denver.

- Bus schedules/Light Rail lines: http://www.rtd-denver.com. Local bus fare is $2.25 (must have exact change); to/from the airport via “Skyride” is $9-$13 each way.
- Denver B-Cycle, Bike Sharing system: http://denver.bcycle.com. B-Cycle offers affordable bikes with lights, locks, and baskets rentable by the hour or by the day. A great way to avoid parking hassles and costs.
- Denver International Airport to the Renaissance Hotel:
  The Ground Transportation Information Counter is located in the Terminal’s central area on Level 5. Counter hours are 6:30AM to 11:30PM daily; phone number is 303-342-4059. In addition to cabs, folks have the options of taking a public bus (RTD Skyride) or catching the hotel's complimentary airport shuttle.

  - Taxi Cabs: Estimated taxi fare is $30 one way; cabs arrive and depart from Level 5, Island 1, outside doors 507-511 (east side) and 506-510 (west side).
  - RTD Bus “Skyride Service”: Fare is $9 one way on lines AB or AS (travel time is approx. 30 minutes). All buses arrive and depart from DIA on Level 5, outside doors 506-510 (west side) and 507-511 (east side). Get off at Stapleton (36th and Ulster); the hotel is about six blocks northwest on Quebec Street.

  - Complimentary Renaissance Shuttle: Pick-up is every 30 minutes until 12:35 AM. The shuttle arrives and departs from Level 5, doors 506 (west side) and 511 (east side). Look for “Hotel Shuttle” signage at Island 3. *The Renaissance shares service with the Holiday Inn East Hotel.

WORKSHOP: Introduction to Oral History
9:00 AM-4:30 PM; 12:00-1:15 PM Lunch Break

This full-day workshop serves as an informative overview of the art and science of oral history from initial idea through finished product. The workshop will cover specifics within three sub-categories of oral history: Pre-Interview, Interview, and Post-Interview, including project planning, technology, funding, questions and follow-up questions, release forms, index or transcript, publication, and any other topic of interest to the attendees. Additionally, the workshop will contain interactive exercises to hone listening and interviewing skills.

Troy Reeves has led the oral history program at University of Wisconsin, Madison, since June 2007. Before that he directed the Idaho Oral History Center from 1999-2006. In both of those positions, Reeves has overseen the key components of managing an oral history program – gathering, preserving, and providing access to recorded interviews, as well as educating interested individuals about the art and science of oral history.

Jennifer Abraham Cramer has been in the field of oral history since 1996, and has been the Director of Louisiana State University’s T. Harry Williams Center for Oral History since 2004, where she has overseen a state-wide initiative to collect oral histories about 20th and 21st Century Louisiana. She has significantly increased the size of the collection by fostering partnerships and collaborations with community members, scholars, and researchers. As director, she has overseen the processing, preservation, digitization, and public access to the vast collections. She is also the Media Review Editor for the Oral History Review and producer of the Center’s podcast, “What Endures.”

Cost: $55 members / $65 non-members. Advance registration required.

2  TELLURIDE

WORKSHOP: Digital Preservation of Oral History
9:00AM-12:00PM

The preservation of digital fieldwork materials forces a radical reconsideration of traditional approaches to preserving archival resources. This workshop will provide an introduction to current archival best practices for the preservation of multimedia digital resources created by oral historians. Our primary intention is to provide guidelines to insure the longevity of the research collection of oral historians who are working with and without the support of professional archivists, be they independent oral historians, academic researchers, graduate students, or public oral historians working in institutional environments. We will discuss the fundamentals of digital preservation, with a special consideration of the demands of digital multimedia materials. We will cover issues pertaining to the choice of acquisition formats, obsolescence cycles, digital storage options, file formats, file management, and analog to digital conversion for preservation and access purposes. We will examine the technological needs for appropriately processing digital audio, images, and video for archival preservation purposes. This year, we will include particular focus on digital video preservation.

Doug Boyd serves as the Director of the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History at the University of Kentucky Libraries. Previously he managed the Digital Program for the University of Alabama Libraries, served as the Director of the Kentucky Oral History Commission and prior to that as the Senior Archivist for the oral history collection at the Kentucky Historical Society. Boyd serves as the project manager for the IMLS funded project Oral History in the Digital Age establishing best practices for oral history with regard to the collecting, curating and distribution of oral history. Boyd also produces Oral History and Digital Technology, a series of online informational videos available on the OHA website. He is currently serving a term on the OHA Council.

Cost: $40 members / $50 non-members. Advance registration required.

STEAMBOAT

WORKSHOP: Publish it Yourself: Demystifying Publishing Technologies for Oral Historians
9:00AM-12:00PM

E-Books. Print on Demand. Short-run digital books. With technology and the Web, publishing a book can be relatively simple. This interactive workshop will provide an informative and practical overview of how oral historians can take advantage of emerging and affordable publishing technologies to bring oral histories to a wider audience. Participants will be introduced to the stages of book production—from editing to design to promotion. Handouts will offer tips on how to pursue further training.

Irene Reti directs the Regional History Project at UC Santa Cruz’s library. She has been the publisher of HerBooks/ Juniper Lake Press since 1984, steering the press through the transition from offset to on-demand publishing. Reti edits and produces oral history volumes in a variety of digital and print formats, both at work and through her small press. Regional History’s most recent publication is Cultivating a Movement: An Oral History of Organic Farming and Sustainable Agriculture on California’s Central Coast. Reti also serves on the council of the OHA.

Cost: $40 members / $50 non-members. Advance registration required.

DURANGO

WORKSHOP: Motivate, Organize, Train, and Accomplish: Oral History and Community-Based Practice
1:00PM-4:00PM

This workshop is intended for oral history practitioners who want to work effectively with community groups on oral history projects. Workshop content will explore many aspects of such partnerships, including:

- Organizing community groups effectively to conduct oral history projects
- Recruiting, motivating, and managing volunteers,
- Successful training techniques in oral history interviewing and recording
- Inspiring high-quality public programming with oral history
- Updating on the best current preservation practices

Participants in this workshop should already have a good understanding of the basics of oral history and be familiar with the fundamentals of interviewing and recording. The goal of this workshop will be to move beyond an introductory discussion and focus on building a tool kit for oral historians to do thriving collaborative work with community groups.

Elinor Mazé is senior editor on the faculty of the Baylor University Institute for Oral History. She holds BA, MA, and MLS degrees. She has worked as a systems analyst, has taught English in Japan, and has served as a technical reference librarian in Saudi Arabia. A member of Baylor’s Institute for Oral History since 2001, her work has focused on technological and archival aspects of oral history recording, preserving, and presenting, as well as on training for best practice in the field.

Michelle Holland is an editor at the Baylor University Institute for Oral History. She final-edits oral history memoirs before they are deposited in the Baylor Library System and conducts interviews for her current project on the history of broadcasting in Waco. She also produces Living Stories, a weekly radio program airing since August 2010 on KWBU-FM, Central Texas’ NPR station. Segments on Living Stories derive from BUIOH’s extensive interview collection and explore topics ranging from local to the global level.

Stephen Sloan is the director of the Baylor Institute for Oral History and an assistant professor of History at Baylor University in Waco, Texas. He holds a PhD from Arizona State University and is a specialist in post-1945 U.S. history, environmental, and public history. He has led many university and community based research projects on a variety of topics from the civil rights movement to the impact of Hurricane Katrina in work funded at the local, state, and national level.

Cost: $40 members / $50 non-members. Advance registration required.
5  TELLURIDE

WORKSHOP: Gathering Oral Histories with Radio in Mind
1:00 PM-4:00 PM

Participants will learn interview techniques and approaches to recording stories and sound that lend themselves well to the narrative structures of radio. The workshop will also cover how to approach narrative storytelling for radio using existing archival audio and new material. Ms. Goodman will use hands-on exercises and share excerpts from her documentaries to illustrate ways to look at oral history through a radio lens.

Rachel Anne Goodman currently works as District Director for Assembly Member Bill Monning, representing California’s 27th Assembly District, which includes parts of Santa Cruz, Monterey, and Santa Clara Counties. Prior to her work for the Assembly, Ms. Goodman was a freelance radio documentary producer and program host for 25 years. She is the recipient of the prestigious Peabody award for excellence in broadcasting for her work on the NPR series “The DNA Files.” She has taught radio journalism at Cabrillo College and the University of California, Santa Cruz. Her most recent series was called “Pastures of Plenty: the History of California Farmworkers” which aired across the country on public radio. She has worked on documentaries about genetics, women in country music, and midwifery, as well as travel and science stories.

Cost: $40 members / $50 non-members. Advance registration required.

6  STEAMBOAT

WORKSHOP: Oral History and The Law
1:00 PM-4:00 PM

This workshop is designed for all oral historians from novices to seasoned veterans. The major topics covered will include: the consenting process, legal release agreements, protecting sealed/restricted interviews from subpoena, defamation, oral history as evidence, the privacy torts, copyright, and putting interviews online. The presentation will be in lecture style with appropriate visual aids but with ample time built in for questions and also to allow participants to raise legal issues that are important to their program or research.

John A. Neuenschwander is an emeritus professor of history at Carthage College in Kenosha, Wisconsin. He also serves as the Municipal Judge for the City of Kenosha and is a licensed attorney in Wisconsin. Neuenschwander earned his PhD in American history from Case Western Reserve University and his JD from Chicago-Kent College of Law. He is a past president of the Oral History Association, has written numerous articles on legal issues that impact oral historians, and is the author of A Guide to Oral History and the Law, Oxford University Press, 2009.

Cost: $40 members / $50 non-members. Advance registration required.

Two additional workshops will be held on Saturday, October 15. See Sessions 59 and 60 for details.

WORKSHOP: Oral History in the Classroom
9:00 AM–4:00 PM; 12:00-1:00 PM Lunch Break

Classroom teachers from elementary to high school who want to enliven the study of history increasingly are using oral history techniques in their classrooms. This half-day workshop will introduce teachers to what oral history is and how the process and its products can help students master state and national standards of learning. Teachers will learn:

- Oral history basics
- How to integrate oral history into existing coursework
- Strategies for planning and managing oral history activities
- What kinds of equipment to consider using
- Where to find additional information about using oral history in the classroom.

Workshop leaders Barbara W. Sommer and Mary Kay Quinlan, are the authors of The Oral History Manual, 2nd edition (AASLH, 2009) and co-authors with Charles E. Trimble of The American Indian Oral History Manual: Making Many Voices Heard (Left Coast Press, 2008). Sommer has been an oral historian for more than 30 years and has directed numerous oral history projects and conducted workshops for community groups, archivists, genealogists and educators around the country. Quinlan, a journalism educator and oral historian, is editor of the OHA Newsletter and is an associate professor of journalism at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Sommer and Quinlan have taught graduate-level oral history courses specifically for elementary and secondary teachers.

STEAMBOAT

WORKSHOP: Introduction to Grant Proposal Writing
8:30AM–12:00PM

Learn four strategies for securing grant funding. Build confidence as you gain a strong understanding of five key components of a grant proposal. In this class, we’ll discuss telling your story, creating a needs assessment and evaluation plan, and strategizing to make connections with grant decision-makers. We’ll also break out into small groups to review two actual proposals, and put theory into practice.

Jay Katz has written successful grant proposals for more than 20 years. Since 1998, he has helped obtain $115 million in grant funding through more than 1,000 funded grants. He has worked for more than 80 different nonprofit organizations. For the past 11 years, he has provided training and technical assistance on seeking grant proposals. He provides a website with free resources on grants and grantseeking at www.coloradogrants.org and publishes the Colorado Grants Insider.

Cost: $50 members / $60 non-members; Advance registration required.

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

2012 OHA Annual Meeting Call for Papers
October 10–14, 2012

Cleveland Marriott Downtown | Cleveland, Ohio
Deadline: January 20, 2012

Sing It Out, Shout It Out, Say It Out Loud: Giving Voice through Oral History

Voices raised in song, in anger, in celebration, in protest, in joy, in memoriam—all have been gathered by oral historians in the course of their work. Over the years the methodology of oral history has given voice to many different individuals from diverse communities and locations around the globe. They have had microphones set in front of them, and they have been given a chance to have their say, say their piece, speak their minds, and put in their two cents’ worth. In some instances the chroniclers have been interviewed before, by journalists or other members of the media, but in other cases, an oral history interview was the first time anyone outside a narrator’s circle of family or friends had asked for his or her perspective. Oral history makes a difference by gathering up all of these disparate voices and making them accessible as a larger chorus, whether through traditional archives, online databases, books, museum exhibits, theater performances, documentaries, radio broadcasts, podcasts, or blogs. The 2012 OHA meeting will focus not only on the many ways that people express themselves within oral histories, but also the ways in which people craft existing oral histories into other means of expression.

LIVING WITH JIM CROW
African American Women and Memories of the Segregated South
Anne Valk and Leslie Brown

“An indispensible contribution to African American and women’s history. Essential.”
—CHOICE

This groundbreaking book collects black women’s personal recollections of their public and private lives during the period of legal segregation in the American South. Using first-person narratives, collected through oral history interviews, the book emphasizes women’s role in their families and communities, treating women as important actors in the economic, social, cultural, and political life of the segregated South. By focusing on the commonalities of women’s experiences, as well as the ways that women’s lives differed from the experiences of southern black men, Living with Jim Crow analyzes the interlocking forces of racism and sexism.

Storytelling, Self, Society: An Interdisciplinary Journal of Storytelling Studies

Storytelling, Self, Society seeks to extend the critical vocabulary of contemporary storytelling, soliciting reviews of performances and individual texts, as well as essays. We recognize that storytelling is a longstanding discipline in itself; thus we welcome personal ethnography and reflection, as well as stories that have evolved from the oral tradition and reflect upon the endurance and evolution of oral traditions in the present day. To learn more about the journal and the recent special issue on Storytelling and Myth, visit: www.tandf.co.uk/journals/HSTS.

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY FULLERTON

CENTER FOR ORAL AND PUBLIC HISTORY

The Center for Oral and Public History (COPH)—a component of the Department of History and the College of Humanities and Social Sciences at California State University, Fullerton (CSUF)—seeks to combine the strengths of oral history and public history in order to build better connections between CSUF and the communities—local, national, and global—to which it is tied when it

- collects and preserves the stories of distinctive individuals and diverse communities
- undertakes and provides support services for public history projects
- trains CSUF students in the research methods of collecting oral histories, interpreting these histories, and presenting important regional, national, and global stories to the public.
