We are delighted to welcome you to the 47th Annual Meeting of the Oral History Association. This year’s theme, “Hidden Stories, Contested Truths: The Craft of Oral History,” reminds us of the ongoing importance of our work and the diversity of ways the craft is practiced. OHA’s first-ever visit to Oklahoma City and the historic Skirvin Hilton Hotel promises new opportunities for learning about the rich and unique landscapes, communities, and history of this region. The theme resonated with researchers around the globe as speakers and presenters will represent North and South America, Europe, Asia, and Oceania, along with nearly every corner of the U.S.

Our special events will ground you in the history of the region, showcase a musical performance based on oral histories, challenge historical memory and memorialization, and highlight an internationally acclaimed storyteller and recording artist. Wednesday evening opens with a showing of the film “Anne Braden: Southern Patriot” and ends with a Southern Oral History Program-sponsored reception honoring Jacquelyn Dowd Hall, an Oklahoma native and SOHP director emeritus. At the Thursday evening presidential reception in the stunning new Oklahoma History Center, Bob Blackburn, the Executive Director of the Oklahoma Historical Society, will provide a short introduction to Oklahoma history, and composer Scott McAllister and his quintet will perform the piece, Polango, inspired by oral histories McAllister conducted exploring the music and the lives of Appalachian coal miners of central Pennsylvania.

Wade Goodwyn, a National Public Radio National Desk Correspondent covering Texas and the surrounding states, will be our featured Friday luncheon speaker. Friday evening will include a visit to the Oklahoma City National Memorial and Museum and an opportunity to hear historian Ed Linenthal as he discusses many of the issues that concerned him in researching and writing his 2003 book, The Unfinished Bombing: Oklahoma City in American Memory. Storyteller, recording artist, and author Dovie Thomason will provide the keynote performance at Saturday evening’s OHA awards dinner. Plenary sessions will investigate the ways that oral historians are exploring American foodways; collaborating with indigenous peoples to document, interpret, and preserve their communities’ histories; and saving the history of an Oklahoma circus community.

With seven workshop offerings on Wednesday and Saturday, new and seasoned oral historians will have an opportunity to expand and refine their skills. A special all-day teachers workshop on Saturday, led by Michael Frisch and the 198 String Band, is titled “Folk Music and Oral History, Folk Music AS Oral History: Teaching with Folk Music, Photographs, and Voices from the Depression.”

We encourage you to get to know Oklahoma City. Take a guided tour to the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum or Oklahoma’s first capital, Guthrie, one of the largest contiguous Historic Districts listed on the National Register of Historic Places. If your interests include art or sports, botanical gardens or river cruises, OKC has it all.

As program co-chairs, we deeply appreciate the generous contributions of the members of the program and local arrangement committees. Many people graciously donated many hours and we believe their expertise, time and talents are evident in this exciting array of offerings. We offer a special thanks to incoming OHA President Stephen Sloan, who has labored in the trenches with us, and to Cliff Kuhn and Gayle Knight in the new OHA offices in Atlanta.

Elizabeth A. Millwood and Todd Moye
2013 Program Committee Co-Chairs
Wade Goodwyn is a NPR National Desk Correspondent covering Texas and surrounding states.

Working for NPR since 1991, Goodwyn has reported on many of the nation’s top stories. He’s covered the implosion of Enron, the trials of Jeff Skilling and Kenneth Lay, and the prosecution of polygamist Warren Jeffs. Goodwyn’s reporting has included the siege of the Branch Davidians in Waco, Texas, the bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City, and the trials of Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols in Denver. He covered the Olympic Games in Atlanta and the school shootings in Paducah, KY, Jonesboro, AR, and Columbine High School in Littleton, CO.

Among his most recent work has been treatment of the wrongful prosecution and conviction of black and Hispanic citizens in Texas and Louisiana. With American and Southwest Airlines headquartered in his backyard, the airline industry is also a subject Goodwyn regularly addresses.

As Texas has moved to the vanguard in national Republican politics, Goodwyn has been at the front line. He has covered the state’s politicians dominating the national stage, including George W. Bush, Tom Delay, and Texas Governor Rick Perry.

In 2013, Goodwyn has done in-depth reporting of the fertilizer plant explosion in West, Texas, and the impact of the tornado that swept through Moore, Oklahoma, just south of Oklahoma City.

Goodwyn graduated from the University of Texas with a degree in history. His father is well-known historian Lawrence Goodwyn, co-founder of the Duke Oral History Program, and a keynote speaker at the 1990 annual meeting of the Oral History Association.
Dovie Thomason, Storyteller, Author, Indigenous Cultural Educator
“Lessons from My Old People”

Sponsored by the Madelyn Campbell Fund for Annual Meeting Speaker Excellence

Over 25 years ago, while at a powwow at Massachusett’s Council Oak, where Massasoit gave orders to feed the first Pilgrims, Dovie Thomason woke just before dawn to a song in an unfamiliar language. Much was unfamiliar to her then, as the Lakota/Kiowa Apache/Scot had recently moved from the Plains of her heritage to the Northeastern woodlands.

Looking out of her tent, she saw a man in a feather cape, facing the sunrise and singing. Following his song, she introduced herself to the man called Namo Hatirire, Red Thunder Cloud--herbalist, healer, storyteller, singer, dancer and last speaker of the Catawba language. That same day, he took her to meet Princess Red Wing, of the Narragansett and Wampanoag nations, as she told stories in the shade of the great tree where her ancestors Massasoit and Metacomet (King Philip) had met with the first English.

Thus began her tutelage by some of the Old People who taught her of the diversity of the nations grouped by linguists and anthropologists under the generic “Algonquian” label. From Red Thunder Cloud, she first learned of the Catawba, a Siouan-language-speaking people from the Southeast whose existence has broadened perceptions of how dispersed and travelled Indian people were before contact on this continent.

Coming from the rich oral tradition of her family, nurtured by her Kiowa Apache grandmother, Dovie has had a lifetime of listening and telling the old, traditional stories that are the foundational narrative of tribal values and memory. When she adds personal stories and untold histories, the result is a contemporary narrative of Indigenous North America told with elegance, wit and passion.

She has been featured at Shakespeare’s Globe Theatre, the Barbican Theatre in London, The Smithsonian, The Kennedy Center, The National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, D.C., international storytelling festivals from Ireland to New Zealand and, as a narrative voice, in documentaries about Native People and storytelling for the BBC, RTE, NPR and PBS. Her audio-recordings have been honored by multiple awards from the Parents’ Choice Foundation and the American Library Association and she’s been described by the ALA as a “valuable resource for multicultural education.” Thomason has been honored by receiving the National Storytelling Network’s prestigious ORACLE: Circle of Excellence Award and the Wordcraft Circle of Native Writers’ Traditional Storyteller Award. The National Endowment for the Arts, Arts International Foundation, and the Smithsonian Associates support her work as a master traditional cultural artist and scholar. A former Native Studies professor, she presents regularly at universities across the country and has served as a consultant to UCLA Film School on the importance of narrative in modern film, to NASA on indigenous views of science and technology, and presented at a recent TEDx Conference.
PLenary Sessions

Thursday Plenary, October 10

Venetian Room

“Maori Tribal Justice, Cherokee Language Preservation, and Athabascan Culture in the Schools: Three Cross-cultural Studies in Oral History”

Moderator: William Schneider, Professor Emeritus, University of Alaska Fairbanks

In this session, three speakers representing three different cultural traditions share with us how they use oral history to document, interpret, and preserve the meanings that nourish and sustain their communities.

Deputy Chief Judge Caren Fox is a judge for the Maori Land Court in New Zealand and an expert on international human rights. Judge Fox will show how oral history is introduced during the formal hearing process and how it is considered with other evidence in adjudicating Maori Land Claims and facilitating cross-cultural understanding. In recognition of her work, Judge Fox was awarded the New Zealand Human Rights Commission 2000 Millennium Medal. She is currently the presiding officer for the Central North Island stage 2 claims and the Porirua ki Manawatu claims.

Annette Freiburger is completing her Masters degree in Northern Studies at the University of Alaska Fairbanks. The topic of her thesis is the life history of her mother, Effie Kokrine, an Athabaskan Indian woman who worked tirelessly, particularly in her last years, to bring Native history and culture to the schools in Interior Alaska. In her presentation, Annette Freiburger will describe her mother’s work and will play short video clips from her research to illustrate her mother’s style of teaching and the response of the students. At the University of Alaska Fairbanks, Annette is the Nenana Center Coordinator for the Interior-Aleutians Campus and she also serves as co-chair of the Chancellor’s Advisory Committee on Native Education.

Candessa Tehee is manager of the Cherokee Language Program for the Cherokee Nation. She is a doctoral student at the University of Oklahoma. Her topic for this session is communicating Cherokee culture, language, and lifeways through oral history narratives. She will draw examples from a creative project she designed to facilitate communication of culture, language, and lifeways between elders and students at the Cherokee Immersion Charter School and the Northeastern State University Cherokee Language Education Program. In this work, eleven students conducted a total of sixteen interviews entirely in the Cherokee language. The resulting collection is particularly valuable because it is in the Native language and there are few other recordings of Cherokee language in conversation.

William Schneider will introduce the speakers, provide brief remarks following the last speaker. William Schneider is Professor Emeritus at the University of Alaska Fairbanks where he ran the Oral History Program for many years. His primary research has been with members of the Native communities in Alaska.
This plenary session will recognize and celebrate the circus heritage of a small town in southeastern Oklahoma. Historically referred to as the “Sarasota of the Southwest” and “Circus City USA,” Hugo, Oklahoma, has served as the winter home to approximately seventeen tent shows since the 1940s. Today, only three remain. Like clockwork every November, the town welcomes back the employees and the menagerie and in April, the performers hit the highway for another season on the road. Over the years, a symbiotic relationship has been nurtured where the town’s businesses have supported the circuses and in turn, circus owners and performers have been civic partners contributing to such endeavors as the local hospital and schools. The circus is a big part of Hugo, with reminders throughout the town of its heritage and impact, from murals in the local elementary school to Showmen’s Rest at the Mount Olivet Cemetery, the final resting place for many associated with circuses not only from Hugo, but beyond.

Historically, big tent circuses traveled from small town to small town entertaining young and old alike with aerial and animal acts. Childhood memories of cotton candy and “Step Right Up” can be recalled by many, but there has been little documentation of the culture of these entertainment occupations and their interactions with or impact on the community, especially in Oklahoma.

Drawing upon interviews conducted as part of The “Big Top” Show Goes On: An Oral History of Occupations Inside and Outside the Canvas Circus Tent, funded by a 2011 Archie Green Fellowship from the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress, researchers Tanya Finchum and Juliana Nykolaiszyn will provide a glimpse into the voices, experiences, and history of those involved with the work culture associated with Hugo, Oklahoma’s tent circus tradition through a mix of audio, video, and photographs recorded as part of this project.

Juliana Nykolaiszyn is an assistant professor and oral history librarian with the Oklahoma Oral History Research Program at Oklahoma State University. From interviewing narrators to processing oral history collections, Juliana’s work involves not only the creation but preservation and online access of oral histories. Outside of her efforts with The “Big Top” Show Goes On, she serves as the principal investigator for the Oklahoma Women’s Hall of Fame Oral History Project.

Tanya Finchum is a professor and oral history librarian with the Oklahoma Oral History Research Program at Oklahoma State University. In addition to The “Big Top” Show Goes On oral history project Tanya has been leader or co-leader in several other projects such as the Women of the Oklahoma Legislature, Oklahoma Centennial Farm Families, Cooperative Extension Agents, Remembering Henry Bellmon, and the Town of Boley, Oklahoma.

"Table Talks: Oral History and the Documentation of American Foodways"

Grand ballroom e/f

Moderator: Rebecca Sharpless, Texas Christian University

Food and talking just seem to go together. Since the America Eats project in the 1930s, when Works Progress Administration writers took to the road to ask people about their foods, researchers have been listening in the kitchens and at the tables of the nation. In this session, three oral historians will tell about what they’ve found.

Elizabeth Engelhardt and graduate students at the University of Texas at Austin, under her direction, fanned out across central Texas to ask about the history, culture, and meanings of the region’s love of barbecue. The resulting project, Republic of Barbecue, first grew into a richly illustrated book and helped launch Foodways Texas, an organization dedicated to the preservation, celebration, and documentation of the diverse food cultures of Texas. The barbecue project also grew into a multi-state collaboration and is incorporated on a website of oral histories. Engelhardt will discuss her multiple critical approaches to oral history scholarship and the joys and trials of collaborative research.

Allison Varzally thinks about California’s contribution to changes in national eating habits and the food industry. She became director of an oral history project focused upon Southern California’s food entrepreneurs and food culture after the Karcher family (of Carl’s Jr. fame) approached the Center for Oral and Public History at California State University, Fullerton. A team of students has interviewed founders, employees, family, and customers of a wide range of commercial restaurants that originated in California soon after World War II, many of which have achieved national prominence. Varzally will highlight the role of California in shaping a national cuisine.

Rebecca Sharpless is associate professor of history at Texas Christian University where she teaches and researches U.S. women’s history, particularly in the South. She is the author of Fertile Ground, Narrow Choices: Women on Texas Cotton Farms, 1900-1940 (1999) and Cooking in Other Women’s Kitchens: Domestic Workers in the South, 1865-1960 (2010).

Amy C. Evans, the Southern Foodways Alliance lead oral historian, and her colleagues have collected more than 700 oral history interviews and produced 35 short documentary films exploring everything from barbecue to boudin, tamales to Tupelo honey. The collection of documentary fieldwork is central to the SFA mission. Oral history interviews and short documentary films not only preserve regional stories for future generations, but connect all of us to people and traditions located in our own backyards. They serve as primary resource material for scholars and celebrate those who have dedicated their lives to the culture and craft of Southern food and drink. Amy will share interviews from the archive, discuss the SFA’s methods and practices, and offer insight into the value of foodways fieldwork.

WEDNESDAY EVENING DOCUMENTARY FILM

October 9, 2013, 6:30–8:30PM
CONTINENTAL ROOM

Documentary Film, Anne Braden: Southern Patriot

Anne Braden: Southern Patriot is a documentary exploration of the extraordinary life and legacy of this American civil rights leader. After she was charged with sedition for attempting to desegregate a Louisville, Kentucky, neighborhood in 1954, Braden used the attacks to turn herself “inside out” and embrace a lifetime of racial justice organizing matched by few whites in American history. Braden was hailed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in his 1963 Letter from Birmingham Jail as a white southerner whose rejection of her segregationist upbringing was “eloquent and prophetic,” and named as one of only five southern whites he could count as allies. Labeled a “traitor to her race” and ostracized as a “red” by segregationists and even many in the civil rights movement, she fought for an inclusive movement community and demonstrated that protecting civil liberties was essential to gaining civil rights. Described as “one of the great figures of our time” by historian Jacquelyn Hall, Braden died in 2006 leaving a remarkable legacy as a grassroots organizer, committed journalist, movement strategist, social chronicler, teacher and mentor to three generations of social justice activists.

In the film Braden recalls 60 years of activism that intersected and linked issues of race with civil liberties, class, gender, sexuality, economic justice, environmentalism, and peace. She delivers a powerful message on the dangers of racism and white supremacy, why it poses such an obstacle to social change, and the necessity of whites organizing with people of color to eliminate it. Braden biographer Catherine Fosl, Angela Y. Davis, Bernice Johnson Reagon, Barbara Ransby, Rev. C.T. Vivian and Cornel West among others add their comments on the far-reaching implications of Braden’s life for activists, students, scholars and anyone interested in building a better world.

The film was directed by Anne Lewis and Mimi Pickering of Appalshop Films, Whitesburg, Kentucky. Mimi Pickering will introduce the film and will answer questions following the showing of the documentary.

PRESIDENTIAL RECEIPTION

THURSDAY NIGHT, PRESIDENTIAL RECEIPTION

October 10, 2013, 6:00–8:30PM
OKLAHOMA HISTORY CENTER, 800 NAZIH ZUHDI DRIVE

Performance sponsored by Institute for Oral History, Baylor University

The Presidential Reception will take place at the stunning new Oklahoma History Center. An architectural masterpiece, the Oklahoma History Center is an 18-acre, 215,000 square-foot learning center exploring Oklahoma’s history, culture, and heritage. The reception will be held in the soaring 80-ft glass atrium with a dramatic view of the Oklahoma State Capitol.

The five state-of-the-art galleries housing more than 200 hands-on audio, video and computer activities will be open for viewing. Exhibits include We Are Who We Were representing all 38 federally recognized American Indian tribes currently associated with Oklahoma and Oklahoma @ the Movies, a major new exhibit celebrating Oklahomans’ involvement with the motion picture industry.

Bob Blackburn, the Executive Director of the Oklahoma Historical Society, will provide a short introduction to Oklahoma history. The featured entertainment of the evening will be a performance of the musical piece Polango. Polango is inspired by the music and the lives of Appalachian coal miners of central Pennsylvania. Scott McAllister, the composer, used a research grant from the Institute for Oral History at Baylor University to record the stories and music of coal miners from the early to mid-twentieth century. Inspired by these oral histories, he wrote this arrangement, combining elements of tango and polka forms, virtuosic cadenzas, lyrical and pyrotechnical music to feature soloists on accordion, piano, bassoon, and clarinet.

Come join us for a wonderful gathering including food and a cash bar. There will be a $5 charge to attend the reception, payable with registration, which will cover transportation. Shuttle bus service to the Oklahoma History Center will depart from the Skirvin Hotel beginning at 5:30PM and return guests to the Skirvin after the reception.
Edward T. Linenthal, one of the leading historians of American historical memory and memorialization, is the featured speaker at our Friday evening special event. The museum and memorial site will remain open after hours so that OHA attendees may tour the site before and after Linenthal’s presentation.

In his presentation, Linenthal will draw upon his experience in writing The Unfinished Bombing: Oklahoma City in American Memory, and his experience as a member of the Flight 93 Memorial Commission to reflect on the parallels and differences between these events. His talk will focus on: various narratives which framed these events in very different ways; the significance of memorial hierarchies; the power of material items often transformed into both sacred relics and commercial commodities; and the processes of formal memorialization.

Edward Linenthal is Professor of History, Adjunct Professor of Religious Studies, and Editor of the Journal of American History at Indiana University, Bloomington. Previously, he was the Edward M. Penson Professor of Religion and American Culture at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh, and a long-time consultant for the National Park Service.

Linenthal has been a Sloan Research Fellow at MIT, where he did the research for his first book, Symbolic Defense: The Cultural Significance of the Strategic Defense Initiative. He is also the author of Sacred Ground: Americans and Their Battlefields and Preserving Memory: The Struggle to Create America’s Holocaust Museum. He has co-edited A Shuddering Dawn: Religious Studies in the Nuclear Age, with Ira Chernus; American Sacred Space, with David Chidester; and History Wars: The Enola Gay and Other Battles for the American Past, with Tom Engelhardt. Linenthal worked for the National Park Service during the 50th anniversary ceremonies at the USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor, and delivered the commemorative address at the memorial in 1994. He has appeared on ABC’s “Nightline,” PBS’s “Newsnight with Jim Lehrer”; and on CBS and NBC evening news. He served on the Federal Advisory Commission for the Flight 93 Memorial in Shanksville, Pennsylvania, and the Academic Advisory Committee for the new permanent exhibition at the FDR Presidential Library in Hyde Park, New York. He is most recently co-editor of The Landscapes of 9/11: A Photographer’s Journey.
So, What Do You Do? Concurrent Event
Thursday, October 10, 8:00–10:00AM
VENETIAN ROOM

Back by popular demand! “So What Do You Do?” is a lively session in which 10 presenters have 5 minutes each to tell the audience what they do in the field of oral history, and maybe a bit of what they do outside of oral history as well. Immediately after the presentations, we will break into 3 rounds of discussion—moderated by an oral history “rock star”—related to the content generated within the presentations and the interests of the attendees. The audience will join presenters in these mini-roundtables to engage in discussion, questioning, debating, learning—and laughing.

In order to have adequate time for presentations and discussion, SWDYD Oklahoma City we will have a special starting time of 8:00AM. This exciting 2-hour session will introduce you to your fellow conference attendees and set a comfortable and sociable tone for your OHA experience. So, grab your morning coffee and join us for SWDYD 2013!

For more information on SWDYD 2013, e-mail Melanie Morse, organizer, at melanie@randforce.com.

INTEREST GROUPS

Thursday, October 10, 1:30–3:00PM

A key benefit of attending the annual meeting of the OHA is the opportunity to interact with oral historians working in similar settings or with related concerns. At the suggestion of many of those who responded to the OHA’s 2013 survey about the annual meeting, we have built interest group meetings into the structure of the 2013 meeting. On Thursday afternoon, eight separate groups will meet to discuss common interests, problems, and solutions. Conference goers will split up into various interest groups to discuss common concerns and plan for the future. Toward that end, when you register we’ll ask you to sign up for the interest group in which you would want to be included.

Groups will include:

- Community oral history
- Independent scholars
- K-12 education
- Military history
- Oral history and archives
- Oral history and digital humanities
- Oral history and social change
- Oral history in government

See room names on page 26.

OHA AWARDS SHOWCASES,
PART I & II

Saturday Afternoon, October 12
CONTINENTAL ROOM

Each year, the Oral History Association recognizes outstanding work with oral history through special awards. The recipients of this year’s awards will have an opportunity to present their award-winning work in these special sessions. This will provide a special opportunity to learn in depth about some of the best work being done by oral historians today.

After the showcase sessions, plan to attend the Saturday night awards banquet and help honor these leaders and pioneers in oral history practice. The award winners will be officially recognized and presented with their awards at the banquet.

The awards to be showcased are:

Part I: Saturday 1:15-2:45PM
- Article Award
- Oral History in Nonprint Format Award
- Elizabeth B. Mason Project Award

Part II: Saturday 3:00-4:30PM
- Book Award
- Martha Ross Teaching Award
- Vox Populi Award

TOURS

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 9:00AM–4:00PM
Explore Guthrie, Oklahoma – Oklahoma’s first capital
Cost: $50

Travel by bus to Guthrie, Oklahoma, which served as Oklahoma’s state capital from 1907 to 1910. Located approximately thirty-two miles north of Oklahoma City, Guthrie is one of the largest contiguous Historic Districts listed on the National Register of Historic Places. In 1999, the downtown area was designated a National Historic Landmark with many beautifully restored buildings as examples of late 19th and early 20th Century architecture, including several designed by architect Joseph Foucart.

The first stop upon arriving in Guthrie will be the Scottish Rite Temple, among the top three Masonic edifices in North America in overall architectural beauty and interior design. Many European artisans were imported to work on the building and it is a “virtual storybook of architectural history.” Following a tour of the Temple, we will travel a short distance to Guthrie’s downtown district. After lunch on their own, group members will regroup and take a narrated trolley ride of Guthrie’s historic areas. For the last part of the trip, group members will visit the Oklahoma Territorial Museum which documents the creation of the Unassigned Lands, the Land Run of 1889, the homestead experience, and territorial and state government. The steps of the adjoining Carnegie Library were the location of the 1907 ceremonial wedding of Indian Territory and Oklahoma Territory to create the state of Oklahoma.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12
9:30AM–12:30PM
National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum
Cost: $45

Travel a short distance by bus to the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum, America’s premier institution of Western history, art and culture. The museum was founded in 1955 and collects, preserves and exhibits internationally renowned collections of Western art and artifacts. The American Cowboy Gallery, comprising 8,000 square feet, interprets the cowboy’s history and culture from Spanish colonial times to the 20th century. The gallery represents the most extensive exhibition on the working cowboy in the United States. The 6,500 square feet American Rodeo Gallery celebrates the history, people and events of the West’s truly indigenous sport. The Art of the American West Gallery contains outstanding examples of paintings and sculptures from the museum’s collection. The Native American Galley displays nearly 190 individual cultural items. Other galleries spotlight firearms, the Frontier West, and western performers. The Museum also features a restaurant and gift store. The tour group will meet in the Skirvin Hotel lobby at 9:15AM. Tour cost includes bus travel and admission to the museum.
ACTIVITIES ON YOUR OWN

DOWNTOWN OKLAHOMA CITY

Oklahoma City’s downtown area offers something for just about everyone. The Arts District includes venues such as the Myriad Botanical Garden, offering a natural escape and a conservatory in the very heart of the city. The Oklahoma City Museum of Art is home to the most comprehensive collection of Dale Chihuly glass in the world. View the collections, the special exhibits and eat at the Museum Café.

The Bricktown district of renovated warehouse buildings—within easy walking distance from the Skirvin—offers a great variety of restaurants, retailers, and entertainment. Bricktown is also home to the American Banjo Museum with interpretive exhibits that tell the story of the banjo from its roots in American slavery to its modern day roles in bluegrass, folk and world music. Bricktown Bike Cabs and the trolley are options for getting to and around Bricktown.

Once home to more than 50 car dealerships and their related services, the Automobile Alley Historic District is thriving with new businesses, residences, restaurants and galleries. Cruise down Automobile Alley for a relaxing neighborhood shopping experience and enjoy original eateries and dining establishments.

NEAR DOWNTOWN

Just a short distance from downtown is the Oklahoma State Capitol area. Located on more than 100 acres, the capitol was completed in 1917 and features Greco-Roman architecture. Visitors will see murals, restored stained glass, the tribal flag plaza, and changing art exhibits. Self-guided tours are available and also trained volunteers conduct tours during the week. Near the capitol is the Harns Homestead which is an outdoor museum, an original Land Run property, and home to some of the most unique treasures of Oklahoma’s past.

Oklahoma City is also home of the oldest zoo in the Southwest. The Oklahoma City Zoo features a diverse and fascinating animal and plant collection spread out over 119 acres. The zoo is home to about 1,900 of the world’s most exotic animals, including 54 endangered or threatened species. The zoo is accessible by Metro Transit.

HISTORIC NEIGHBORHOODS

Founded in 1902, Mesta Park is a thriving historic community in the heart of Oklahoma City. With its many examples of Prairie School and Craftsman architecture from the early 20th century, it was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1983. Bordered by Western Avenue on the west and Walker Avenue on the east, Mesta Park spans from 16th Street north to 22nd.

Another notable historic neighborhood accessible by public transit is Heritage Hills. Located between NW 13th Street and NW 23rd Street, Heritage Hills features tree-lined sidewalks and irreplaceable historic spaces including the Overholser Mansion. Built in 1903, the home is open to the public and still contains the original furnishings and belongings of the Overholser family. The neighborhood is also home to the Wilson Arts Integration Elementary, one of the oldest school buildings still in use in Oklahoma City.
GETTING AROUND

From the airport
Taxis, shuttles, and bus transportation are available from Will Rogers Airport to downtown. The airport is about 12 miles from the heart of Oklahoma City. Taxi fare to the Skirvin is about $28; Airport Express shuttle service is generally $20 to downtown hotels, and Metro Transit buses run a limited schedule to the Downtown Transit Center (within walking distance of the Skirvin) for $1.50. Learn more about bus service on its website, www.gometro.org.

Downtown
The Downtown Discover Trolley is free and open to the public. It runs to popular destinations such as Bricktown, the Oklahoma City National Memorial, the Banjo Museum, the Downtown Transit Center, the Boathouse District, and the Oklahoma City Museum of Art. Wednesday through Saturday, the trolley runs 10AM to 8PM at 15 minute intervals and between 8PM and 11PM at 30 minute intervals.

Metro Transit serves over 25 bus routes operating Monday through Saturday from 7AM to 7PM, radiating from the Downtown Transit Center. Buses generally depart from the Transit Center in 15-minute increments throughout the day. The standard bus fare is $1.50. For more information visit www.gometro.publishpath.com.

Spokies is the new Oklahoma City bike share program with seven kiosks, including several near the Skirvin, http://spokiesokc.com.

Workshop: An Introduction to Oral History
GRAND BALLROOM B/C
8:00AM-12PM

Sponsored by Institute of Oral History, University of Texas at El Paso

The introductory workshop serves as an informative overview to the field of oral history from initial idea through finished product. The workshop will cover specifics within three sub-categories of oral history: Pre-Interview, Interview, and Post-Interview, including the basics of oral history, project planning, technology, interview setup, writing questions, release forms, providing access and/or a transcript, available resources, and any other topic of interest to the attendees. Additionally, the workshop will include a series of audio question-and-answer examples from several oral history interviews to help individuals hone interviewing skills and provoke additional discussion in the workshop.

Jeff D. Corrigan has been the Oral Historian for The State Historical Society of Missouri at the University of Missouri-Columbia, since April 2008. Prior to that he taught U.S. History and Western Civilization at Illinois Valley Community College. He holds a BS in Agricultural Communications and Advertising from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign and an MA in US and World History from Eastern Illinois University. He served on the OHA Program Committee for the Denver conference and was last year’s Workshop Chair in Cleveland.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

Workshop: Thinking & Writing Digitally: Bringing Multimedia Content to the Writing of Oral History
CENTENNIAL BALLROOM 2 & 3
8:30AM-12PM

This half-day, hands-on workshop is designed to provide guidance to authors who seek to integrate multimedia content into the writing of oral history. The aim of the workshop is to help attendees realize the goal of “writing digitally”—that is, making multimedia content integral, rather than merely supplemental, to the arguments presented. Toward that end, the workshop leaders, members of the Oral History Review’s editorial team, will not lecture on the concept of “writing digitally”; rather, attendees should bring a work-in-progress, article-length writing project (or a solid, well-thought-out idea) for which they have (or intend to create) digital content. After an initial introduction to the concept of “writing digitally” and a demonstration of one or two digitally conceived articles, the workshop will consist of the OHR’s editors working with attendees to integrate their multimedia content into their work-in-progress in such a way that the text and multimedia content mutually enhance each other and the argument presented. The focus will be on “thinking digitally” (and not on providing technical assistance), but the editors will provide guidance on technical matters, as possible.

The workshop is limited to 10 participants, and registrants should send a one-paragraph description of their work-in-progress to Troy Reeves (at treeves@library.wisc.edu) at the time they register for the workshop. In the event of over-subscription to the workshop, priority will be given to those registrants whose work-in-progress are the most fully developed. The workshop leaders hope to make this workshop a regular feature of OHA conferences, so as to accommodate as much interest—over time—as possible.

Kathryn Nasstrom serves as the Editor of the Oral History Review. She is an Associate Professor of History at the University of San Francisco, where she teaches oral history, women’s history, and the history of social movements (especially civil rights movements). Her editorial experience includes serving as a series editor for the Oxford University Press oral history book series, and she has also served on the Council of the Oral History Association.
Doug Boyd serves as the Digital Initiatives Editor for the Oral History Review. He directs the Louie B. Nunn Center for Oral History at the University of Kentucky Libraries. Most recently, Boyd led the team that envisioned, designed, and implemented the open-source OHMS system that synchronizes text with audio and video online. He also managed the IMLS grant project, Oral History in the Digital Age (directed by MATRIX at Michigan State University), establishing current best practices for collecting, curating and disseminating oral histories.

Troy Reeves serves as the Managing Editor of the Oral History Review. He heads up oral history activities at University of Wisconsin, Madison through their oral history program. From 1999-2006, he directed the Idaho Oral History Center in Boise. Along with these program leadership tasks, he has managed over a dozen oral histories projects in Wisconsin and Idaho on myriad topics, including cultural, political, and environmental history, and has written about and presented on oral history topics throughout the U.S.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

Workshop: Oral History and IRBs
CENTENNIAL BALLROOM 2 & 3
1:00-4:30PM

Dealing with your institution’s IRB for your oral history project can be confusing and frustrating. When the federal Office of Human Research Protections (OHRP) ruled that oral history did not meet the federal definition of research and was therefore exempt from institutional review board (IRB) oversight, the final decision on how to handle oral history research still remained with individual institutions. The result is that IRBs’ approach to oral history varies widely. The relationship is further complicated when IRB members and staff are not familiar with oral history methodology. However, there are underlying consistencies in IRBs which can demystify the bureaucracy and help you shepherd your project through it. This workshop will provide you with the knowledge and strategies you need to successfully navigate your institution’s human subjects approval process.

Barbara Truesdell is the assistant director of the Center for the Study of History and Memory at Indiana University, formerly the Oral History Research Center. She received her Ph.D. from IU in folklore and American Studies in 1996. She has been doing fieldwork since 1985, and since 1992 has been conducting oral history training workshops for students, researchers, and community groups, including workshops in St. Petersburg, Russia, and Cluj, Romania. She is currently developing an online oral history training workshop in collaboration with scholars in the Instructional Systems Technology Department of the School of Education at IU-Bloomington. She has been a member of the Indiana University Bloomington Human Subjects Committee (IRB) since 2008, is currently the vice chair of that committee, and serves on the IU IRB Executive Committee.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

Workshop: Oral History and the Law
GRAND BALLROOM B/C
1:00-4:30PM

The goal of this workshop is to explore the major legal issues that all practitioners of oral history should be knowledgeable about. Topics to be covered include: professional ethics, legal release agreements, protecting sealed/restricted interviews, defamation, the privacy torts, copyright, uploading interviews to the internet, and institutional review boards. Participants will be given ample opportunities to ask questions related to their project or subject matter interest. The workshop is intended to be academic in nature and will not provide legal advice.

John A. Neuenschwander is an emeritus professor of history at Carthage College in Kenosha, Wisconsin. He served as the Municipal Judge for the City of Kenosha from 1985-2012 and is a licensed attorney in Wisconsin. Neuenschwander earned his PhD in American history from Case Western Reserve University and his JD from Chicago-Kent College of Law. He is a past president of the Oral History Association, has written numerous articles on legal issues that impact oral historians, and is the author of A Guide to Oral History and the Law, Oxford University Press, 2009.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

Workshop: Turning Oral History Transcripts into Performance Texts
GRAND BALLROOM A
1:00-4:30PM

This workshop explores the process of converting oral histories from the page to the stage. Working in small groups, from sections of the same oral history transcripts, we will investigate the following: What makes something theatrical? How does embodiment change an oral history transcript? What issues of contextualization and de-contextualization arise? How does the identity positioning... of a performer enrich or subvert a transcript? What literary strategies can be used to enhance theatricality while honoring oral history? Be prepared for a laboratory approach that involves a few basic acting and directing exercises, as well as group experiment and discussion.

Julie Pearson-Littlethunder is a Visiting Assistant Professor with the Oklahoma Oral History Research Program (OOHRP) at the Oklahoma State University Library. Her primary work involves interviewing Oklahoma Native artists. Littlethunder has a Ph.D. in Theatre Studies from the University of Kansas, and was a co-founder and Artistic Director of Thunder Road Theatre Company from 1993-2011. She has written several plays, and participated in three playwriting residencies with Native Voices at the Autry at San Diego State University. Her playwriting/directing work at OSU includes “Can’t Turn Me Around,” a play drawing upon oral histories of women in the Oklahoma Legislature, from OOHRP’s collections. She was also a co-facilitator, dramaturg and director for “Oral History and Performance,” a workshop offered at the Southwest Oral History Association in April, 2012.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

and music, but the techniques are more generally applicable as well for any curriculum.

The 198 String Band has researched and assembled Depression Era/New Deal music from the Library of Congress and other archives, including the Farm Security Administration (FSA) migrant camp field recordings from the late 1930s and early 1940s that have rarely been performed and never commercially recorded. Period audio sources include excerpts from oral histories, poems, narratives, thus bringing actual Oklahoma voices from the Dust Bowl into range for classroom and public use.

Workshop participations will receive a CD of songs from The 198 String Band, a lyric pack used in discussions, a CD/DVD with representative public domain photo sequences and audio documents, along with guides to online materials and lesson plan models that emerge from workshop activities.

A certificate of completion for all participants will be made available.

Mike Frisch (fiddle, guitar, vocals) is Professor of American Studies and History at the University at Buffalo, a recent President of the Oral History Association, and serves on the Board of the New York Council for the Humanities.

Peggy Milliron (guitar, vocals) is a music educator, history researcher, and avid photographer who did the photo research and selection for this presentation and partnered in the editing process.

Tom Naples (guitar, banjo, autoharp) is a folk singer who has researched the music of the Great Depression in archives and travelled the route of the Dust Bowl migrations, visiting migrant camp sites and interviewing former camp residents.

No fee for workshop; $10 fee for lunch
Workshop: Oral History and Digital Preservation
CONTINENTAL ROOM
8:30AM-12:00PM

The preservation of digital fieldwork materials forces a radical reconsideration of traditional approaches to preserving archival resources. This workshop will provide an introduction to current archival best practices for the preservation of multimedia digital resources created by oral historians. The primary intention of this workshop is to provide guidelines to ensure the longevity of the research collection of oral historians who are working in institutional environments. We will discuss the fundamentals of digital preservation, with a special consideration of the demands of digital multimedia materials. We will cover issues pertaining to the choice of acquisition formats, obsolescence cycles, digital storage options, file formats, file management, and analog-to-digital conversion for preservation and access purposes. We will examine the technological needs for appropriately processing digital audio, images, and video for archival preservation purposes. This year, we will include particular focus on the findings of the IMLS funded Oral History in the Digital Age best practices initiative as well as pay particular attention to digital video preservation.

Doug Boyd serves as the director of the Louis B. Nunn Center for Oral History at the University of Kentucky Libraries. Previously he managed the digital program for the University of Alabama Libraries, served as the director of the Kentucky Oral History Commission and prior to that as the senior archivist for the oral history collection at the Kentucky Historical Society. Boyd served as the project manager for the IMLS funded project Oral History in the Digital Age, establishing best practices for oral history with regard to the collecting, curating and distribution of oral history. Most recently, Boyd led the team that envisioned and designed the open-source OHMS system that synchronizes text and index points to correlating moments in the audio and video interviews online.

Cost: Members $40; Non-members $50

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

2014 OHA Annual Meeting
October 8-12, 2014

Madison, Wisconsin | Madison Concourse Hotel
The deadline for submission is January 20, 2014.

Oral History in Motion: Movements, Transformations, and the Power of Story

Motion suggests many things: action and transformation; dynamism and fluidity; migration and the power to move. By its very nature, oral history is constantly in motion – in the evolving relationship between the two parties in an interview; in the interplay between the past and the present; in conjunction with emergent technologies and diverse applications. Oral history also has played a crucial role in documenting and understanding the central movements of our time, from a broad array of social movements to transnational migrations.

The 2014 annual meeting of the Oral History Association will offer the opportunity to assess various dimensions of oral history in motion. The digital revolution has ushered in myriad new possibilities in the collection, curation, presentation, and interpretation of oral history interviews, with complex consequences and implications. Many of the currents and developments of the contemporary world – from war to trauma to the global migration of people, capital, culture and ideas – have oral historical ramifications. In particular, oral historians have had a varied and complicated relationship with movements for social change both in the U.S. and around the world. What is the relationship between scholarship and advocacy, between history and journalism, between personal memories and collective consciousness, among diverse social movements?

Conference organizers invite proposals for panels or individual papers that address any and all themes of oral history in motion.

Long known as a vibrant cultural hub and site of political ferment, Madison, Wisconsin offers an excellent place to facilitate discussions about movements. Madison was the home of Governor Robert M. “Fighting Bob” La Follette, who promoted the Wisconsin Idea of using higher education to advance the welfare of all citizens of the state. It was a major center for the social movements of the 1960s and their aftermath. Most recently Madison was at the heart of animated debate and protest over public policy and workers’ rights. In the 1950s and 1960s the University of Wisconsin was the incubator for a cohort of critical and influential historians, and Madison hosts some of the most significant collections in the country on the history of social movements.

The Program Committee welcomes broad and diverse interpretations of the conference theme as reflected in proposals for panels, individual papers, performances, exhibits, and roundtables. We especially encourage presenters to think about innovative delivery models including dramatic performance, interactive sessions, dialogic formats that engage audiences, and use of digital media.

Presenters are encouraged to incorporate voice and image in their presentations. OHA is open to proposals from the variety of fields traditionally represented in our meetings, including, but not limited to, history, folklore, music, literature, sociology, anthropology, American and ethnic studies, cultural studies, gender studies, political science, information science and technology, business, communications, and urban studies.

In recognition of the important work occurring outside the United States, we also hope to have a significant international presence at the meeting. And, as always, OHA welcomes proposals from independent scholars, community activists and organizers, archivists, librarians, museum curators, web designers, documentary producers, media artists, ethnographers, public historians, and all practitioners whose work is relevant to this meeting’s focus.

If accepted, international presenters may apply for partial scholarships, made available by OHA in support of international presentations. Please note that OHA’s resources allow for limited support. Small scholarships are also available for accepted presenters and others who attend the meeting.

Proposal format: For full sessions, submit a title, a session abstract of not more than two pages, and a one-page vita or resume for each participant. For individual proposals, submit a one-page abstract and a one-page vita or resume of the presenter.

Proposal queries may be directed to:

Voice of Witness is a non-profit organization that uses oral history to illuminate contemporary human rights crises in the U.S. and around the world. Founded by author Dave Eggers and physician/human rights scholar Lola Vollen, Voice of Witness publishes a book series that depicts human rights injustices through the stories of the men and women who experience them. The Voice of Witness Education Program brings these stories, and the issues they reflect, into high schools and impacted communities through oral history-based curricula and holistic educator support.

NEW FROM VOICE OF WITNESS IN 2013

HIGH-RISE STORIES:
VOICES FROM CHICAGO PUBLIC HOUSING
Compiled and Edited by Audrey Petty

In the gripping first-person accounts of High-Rise Stories, former residents of Chicago’s iconic public housing projects describe life in the now-dismantled high-rises. These stories of displacement give voice to those who have long been ignored, but whose hopes and struggles exist firmly at the heart of our national identity.

THE POWER OF THE STORY
SECOND EDITION
Compiled and Edited by Cliff Mayotte
$20 • $24 for this guide plus a select title from the Voice of Witness series • Exclusively available at store.mcsweeney.com

Voice of Witness is delighted to present the second edition of The Power of the Story: The Voice of Witness Teacher’s Guide to Oral History, a resource for teachers using titles in the Voice of Witness series. This comprehensive guide allows teachers and students to explore contemporary issues through the transformative power of oral history.

AMONG THE NARRATORS:

Dulores, who, at the age of eighty-two, was hastily displaced from her home in Cabrini-Green after fifty-three years and forced to leave many of her belongings behind.

Donnell, who was initiated into gang life at the age of twelve.

Sabrina, whose sister was shot in the head in their Cabrini-Green apartment when she was caught in the middle of a turf-related shooting.

THE POWER OF THE STORY INCLUDES:
- Flexible core curriculum-aligned lesson plans
- Excerpts from the Voice of Witness series
- Step-by-step instructions for creating oral history projects

THE NEW EDITION INCLUDES:
- Brand-new lesson plans for new Voice of Witness titles
- A new section on Exile and Displacement
- Additional educator resources
The Oklahoma Oral History Research Program welcomes you to Oklahoma!

The Oklahoma Oral History Research Program (OOHRP) was founded in 2007 as part of the Oklahoma State University Library, with the goal of documenting and making accessible the history of Oklahoma and OSU through oral history interviews. By educating students, faculty, and community members in the methods and ethical standards of oral history, the OOHRP promotes the collection, preservation, and analysis of interview-based research. The program is also an arm of OSU’s Center for Oklahoma Studies and has a number of ongoing projects pertaining to the state’s history.

All of the program’s fully processed and non-restricted oral histories are available online, with word-searchable transcripts and audio files. Video files are available upon request. For more information, please contact the OOHRP at 405-744-7685, or view our website and online collections at www.library.okstate.edu/oralhistory. You can also look for us on Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube.
An audio visual laboratory handling film, video and audio, including high capacity transfer stations for both audio and video cassettes that produce affordable, high quality files. An ideal solution for your oral history collections.
